COCKTAILS

HARTWELL'S SIGNATURES

King Louis	£ 17.50
Based on the classic French 75, this cocktail has been created to honour Hartwell's most famous resident. Bourbon, lemon, sugar syrup, and our house Champagne act as the gateway to a perfectly integrated combination of bourbon and citrus.
Fredericks	17.50
Bombay Sapphire gin, Chambord, Cointreau and pineapple juice give this drink real flavour, sweetness and a rich texture.
Lady Lee	17.50
A Hartwell original named after Lady Elizabeth Lee, who was a prestigious member of Hartwell's original residents; The Lee Family. Her portrait hangs proudly in our Library. This incredibly refreshing cocktail pairs Frobisher's Apple Juice with Amaretto, Sloe Gin and Cointreau.
North Avenue	17.50
An excellent post-dinner drink for this season. A take on a classic "White Russian" with a sweet hazelnut aftertaste. It's can be made decaffeinated on request Named in homage to both the Horse Chestnut and Black Walnut trees found at the beginning of Hartwell's "Northern Avenue" that is visible from both main entrance and bar windows.
Hartwell Orchard	17.50
This incredibly refreshing light, fruity and aromatic cocktail pairs Calvados with Elderflower Liqueur.

WHISKY

HIGHLAND MALTS

The whiskies classified as Highland malts are those North of the Highland boundary fault line. They come as far apart as Dunbartonshire, Orkney, Argyll and Wick, and incorporate the Isles of Skye, Jura, Mull and Arran. Whiskies from the North Highlands tend to be smooth, fruity sweet and not too peaty.

£ 50ml

Highland Park, 12 years old

14.00

Mid gold in colour. Aromas of honey, smoke and heather. Enjoy the delicate balance of sweet and dry flavours with a smoky hook in the finish.

The Dalmore, 12 years old

16.00

A smooth, full-bodied whisky with a hint of sherry and peat in its malted flavours.

Teaninich, 10 years old

16.00

This sherry cask single malt has an attractive nose with hints of hessian, nuts and orange peel. It is a rich, sweet, nutty whisky.

Glenmorangie, 10 years old

14.00

Pale gold. Floral and citric notes with a backdrop of smoke. Medium bodied, easy to drink with traces of almonds and spice.

Talisker, 10 years old

14.50

Referred to as "King 'O' Drinks". Mid gold with a pungent nose. Smoky and spicy in flavour edged with sweetness and ends with a black pepper finish.

Macallan 12 years Sherry Oak Cask

18.00

Sherry Oak 12 years Old exudes flavour notes of dried fruits, oak spice and nutmeg. The smooth silk alludes to the long and warming ginger finish to this remarkable Scottish single malt.

ISLAY MALTS

The most distinctive of all single malt whiskies. Islay is laced with extensive peat beds, over which the water flows and arrives at the distillery already flavoured before being added to the malt barley, which has already been infused with smoke from the peat during the process of drying out. The results are full flavoured (medicinal), peaty whiskies often with a hint of smokiness sweetness or saltiness

£ 50ml

Lagavulin, 16 years old

18.00

Typical heavy burnt heather scented smoke aroma. The flavour begins sweet and malty, developing into a wonderfully long smoky finish.

Bowmore, 12 years old

17.00

A subtle Islay malt with a smoky aroma that takes you to a big, sweet flavour with traces of lavender

Ardbeg, 10 years old

17.00

A subtle Islay malt with a smoky aroma that takes you to a big, sweet flavour with traces of lavender.

Laphroaig, 10 years old

17.00

The “ancient mariner” of malt whiskies, the nose is powerful in peat smoke and its taste is of iodine and salt with a touch of sweetness.

SPEYSIDE MALTS

Speyside is acknowledged as the heartland of whisky production in Scotland. Speyside malts offer typically sweet and estery notes and are lightly peated to offer complex and sophisticated flavours. Situated around the Elgin-Dufftown district in Northeast Scotland, this remote, fertile area was an ideal location for whisky smugglers and operations of illicit stills to escape the attention of the excise men.

£ 50ml

Cragganmore, 12 years old

15.00

Amber in colour with a sherry nose that develops into smoky leather aromas with water. Sweet and dry in flavour, with a malty smoky finish.

Glenfiddich, 12 years old

14.00

Pale straw with green tints. Light in the nose with a faint smoky aroma. The flavour is sweet to start and green with a short finish.

The Glenlivet, 12 years old

14.00

Pale gold in colour with sherry, floral notes. Smooth and sweet start, some honey and light fruit with a dry finish.

Balvenie double wood, 12 years old

15.00

Deep amber colour with aromas of a rich fruit cake. Full and well-balanced flavour with sherry and fruit followed by a hint of chocolate.

LOWLAND MALTS

These are the lightest of all the malt whiskies and a delightful opening journey into the wider malt whisky world. These are produced south of an imaginary line drawn between Greenock in the West and Dundee in the East. Relatively unassertive in character, they are normally soft and light with a gentle sweetness.

£ 50ml

Glenkinchie, 10 years old

16.00

Soft and sweetly aromatic, this Edinburgh malt has suggestions of melon, grass and cinnamon, with a gentle, warming finish.

The Epicurean

14.50

Small Batch barley-rich, citric, floral and herbal. Sweet burnt sugar, palate with fruit and spice notes followed by a medium-long finish with herbal oak notes, from the nose being underpinned by the zesty flavours.
